

Resources In Jarro

The value of the resources attribute varies from world to world and country to country. The focus here is on Jarro where a combination of coinage and paper certificates of exchange are used. The value of real money fluctuates in setting, just as it does in our own time and world, dependent on social situations. These lists represent a 'start of game' set of values to buy goods which may change depending on major world events in game, such as war, famine, etc.

The Resource attribute is multiplied by 100 to get a character's "Cash On Hand". They can spend any or all of their available cash on items from these lists.

In New Lutetia the main currency unit is the Lucre. In the Belgravian Republic the main currency unit is known as the Crown. In Perdrix the main currency unit is the Loren. In Zeitland the main currency is the Ducat. In the Sultanate of Dragomir the main currency unit is the Orlo. Each of these has lesser proportional units, of 'partial denominations' that break them into various parts.

For ease of use we are listing things in decimal style currency form, and assuming at start the currencies have equal value. Some descriptive information is included when it's thought to be useful.

Apologies for the mixture of Metric and Imperial measurements, converting some values from the way products are traditionally sold becomes very complex.
